No NOC from MBRRB since 1 yr to redevelop cess bldg

State's amended GR acts as a hindrance for small developers to undertake redevelopment

SWEETY ADIMLAM
Mumbai

The MBRRB (Mumbai Building Repairs & Redevelopment Board) has not issued a single NOC (No objection Certificate) to redevelop cess buildings from September 2019 till date. Reason: The state government's amended government resolution (GR) has stringent conditions for the developers, said Vinod Ghosalkar, chairman of the MBRRB.

The amended GR passed by the former Housing Minister Radhakrishna Vikhe Patil has a high set of criteria. Like the developer interested to undertake redevelopment of cess buildings is required to have a total turnover of Rs 10 crore to Rs 50 crore in three years. Besides, the developer should have constructed 500 houses earlier, then only will be eligible for undertaking the redevelopment. Ghosalkar explained, "Due to amended GR the redevelopment of cess buildings has completely stalled. No builder or landlord is approaching the board, as several do not fit in the amended GR criteria. The matter has been brought to the notice of CM Uddhav Thackeray also and soon in the cabinet meeting the GR is expected to be revised once again."

There are 16,000 cess buildings and the MBRRB is responsible to collect cess and development of these buildings, which are mostly located in South Mumbai. MBRRB is an undertaking of MHADA (Maharashtra Housing and Area Development Authority).

Ghosalkar stated, "For big housing projects the amended conditions are suitable. While the old cess buildings are built on small land parcels and do not offer high floor space index (FSI) and therefore redevelopment is commonly carried out by small time builders or landlords themselves." The amended GR was introduced in a bid to expedite the redevelopment of cess buildings after Kesarbai Mansion cess building at Dongri collapsed in July 2019.

A senior official from MBRRB, who did not wish to be named said, "It is true that the board has received a lukewarm response from builders to redevelop cess buildings in this one year. Apart from the amended GR, now due to the outbreak of novel coronavirus including the real estate sector is suffering from financial problems. Many a times, the landlords of cess buildings carry out redevelopment by appointing a contractor. In such cases, the GR acts as hindrance in the redevelopment process."

Thane cops donate blood to gangrape survivor

THANE: Two police personnel in Thane district have donated their blood to a 42-year-old victim of gangrape at a hospital here, an officer said on Monday. The victim was in dire need of AB positive blood which was not available with the hospital, he said, adding that donors were not readily available due to COVID fear. After doctors contacted Narpoli police, two personnel namely Pramod Eishi and Rahul Vagh went to the hospital and donated their blood, said senior inspector Maloji Shinde. The policemen were felicitated on Monday for their act. The woman was raped by five men at knife point in Bhiwandi last week, DCP, Zone II, Rajkumar Shinde said.

Group seeks used gadgets for children who cannot afford it

PRATIP ACHARYA / Mumbai

In an attempt to ensure that not a single child is deprived of basic education, a Mumbai-based citizens' group has initiated a unique donation drive seeking second-hand gadgets and smart devices. The Mumbai North Central District Forum (MNCDF) is a citizens' group which is actively involved in voluntary social work. As most of the private and state-run schools have now adapted to virtual classrooms, those from underprivileged backgrounds are finding it difficult to afford a smart device. Unable to find any remedy for their financial problems, families living in parts of Maharashtra and also living in the outskirts of the state have approached the members of MNCDF seeking help in buying gadgets and smart devices. "Many people have approached us to help them in the procurement of gadgets which is why we have generated a donation campaign requesting people to donate their unused smart devices, which can be used by these people", Trivankumar Karnani, founder and spokesperson MNCDF told FPI. The group had launched the campaign on August 1 by initiating an online and offline donation drive. The campaign was created through both social media (online) as well as word of mouth (offline) as well. MNCDF have received varieties of smart devices including tablets, smartphones, iPads and iPhones till date, which they are planning to hand out to the people on August 15. The devices will be donated in phases not only to the children studying in BMC-run schools in Mumbai but also to those who are studying in different Zilla Parishad (ZP) schools.

"We have asked people to donate gadgets directly because many people update their smart gadgets frequently and a lot of gadgets remain unused so these gadgets don't get wasted and could be put into good use," Karnani stated. "The drive received a good response and we have received a variety of devices. We will now sort them and hand out to the people on August 15," he added, also mentioning the drive would continue even after the August 15. "Most of the people who are living outside Mumbai do not have the ability to buy smart devices. Even if they buy they are not well equipped with their usage," stated Ramesh Salunke, former educator and activist.

Malad tippler in low spirits after losing ₹1L for 4 bottles

PRIYANKA NAVALKAR
Mumbai

A 41-year-old Malad resident was duped to the tune of over a lakh rupees after he ordered liquor online. Police said the man ended up losing Rs 1.05 lakh for four liquor bottles worth Rs 1,460 after he shared his credit card details and OTP. A case has been lodged against the unidentified accused and search is underway.

The victim, an employee of a private firm, who was at home during the lockdown, wanted to consume liquor while at his own leisure in the month of May. Accordingly, on May 24, the complainant searched for a liquor shop on an online search engine, which showed him the result of one 'Sona Wines' in the neighbourhood. Subsequently the man then dialled the number available on the webpage and ordered for two bottles of vodka and beer each. Soon after this phone call, the complainant received a call from the same number, where a man claimed, in order to get free home delivery, he will have to make an online payment of Rs 1,460, to which the complainant agreed.

"I sent my credit card number to the shop's mobile number and to authenticate the transaction, the shopkeeper asked me to share the One Time Password (OTP), to which I obliged. Soon, Rs 39,980 was debited from my account and I raised a query," said the complainant in his statement given to the police. The wine shopkeeper promised to reverse the debited amount and asked for three more OTPs, after which the complainant lost an additional Rs 66,000 in a series of transactions, only to realise that he is being duped. The complainant then stopped sharing the OTP and called the bank's customer care to block the credit card. Over 45 days after the cheating incident, the man approached Malad Police and lodged a complaint, claiming that he could not approach them earlier because of the lockdown. Accordingly, police lodged a FIR against unidentified accused.

K west ward to run vehicles to collect idols for immersion

DIPTI SINGH / Mumbai

In a bid to discourage people from coming outdoors for immersion of Lord Ganesh idols, BMC's K West ward, which covers Andheri(W), Juhu, Versova and other such areas will be running a vehicle to collect the idols and carry out the immersion on behalf of citizens. The vehicle will visit housing societies in its jurisdiction during the four immersion days during Ganesh Chaturthi festival. Vishwas Mote, the assistant municipal commissioner of K-West ward made the appeal to the citizens through a letter/circular dated August 10 and asked them to perform symbolic immersion inside their households and hand over the idols to the civic body. Besides public (Sarvajani) installation of Lord Ganesh idols, thousands of people in the metropolis install such idols at home and immerse it on four to five different days during the 10-day festival. Ganesh Chaturthi is the most popular religious event in Maharashtra. This year, the festival starts on August 22. "To avoid overcrowding and for maintenance of social distancing, there is a plan of accepting Ganpati idols at the society gates for immersion. We will send vehicles from society to society in our ward, residents can perform symbolic immersion and other rituals at their household and give the idol to us for immersion. In areas where vehicles are unable to reach, those societies/households can hand over their idols to the nearest Sarvajani Ganpati Mandal. In this way there will be no crowding, people will not be risking their lives and celebrate the festival too," said Mote.
